

This is the weekend workshop I have been contemplating: TEAM PLAY — an experimental, collaborative kind of thing. Many of you know my magazine, AnOAn, dedicated to the art of the sketchbook. Anyone game to experiment with me on the spring issue of the magazine?

The format is eclectic, that is, anything that can be construed as sketchbook material: paintings, sketches, mock-ups, trials, any little details.

We won't worry about how raw things are, we won't worry about pretty, we'll lean into what develops under the point of our pen, our pencil, our scissors, our brush.

Shall we come together for this experiment? I'd love it. We'll work in the studio and in the field.

Suitable for seasoned painters and daring beginners.
